

I am very concerned about the concentration of ownership in broadcasting and related media. It is having a negative effect on employment opportunities, the provision of news coverage--especially local news coverage, the amount and quality of public service programming, and the quality of programming on local radio and TV. (Just listen to the highest rated group ownership morning radio shows' trash talking across America with no local community accountability.) I urge the FCC to reverse the trend and return the public's airways to a real marketplace of competitive and diverse ownership. Thank you.
